The Central Simulation Committee (CSC) meets at Joint Base Ft. Lewis-McCord, WA for briefings and discussions related to Army/DOD clinical simulation initiatives and goals. Representatives from 10 Medical Centers nationwide discuss current issues and forecast the future roles that clinical simulation to increase patient safety and service to AMEDD community of practitioners and residency programs.

Simulation staff from each site listened and engaged each other on medical specialty simulations and their relevance within each program. Within these specialties the CSC identifies areas of collaboration where research is promising. The overall mission of the CSC is to support Graduate Medical Education within each site and to assist other services train using simulation for skills training and quality improvement. Discussions also focused on strategic relevance of clinical simulation and military branch cooperation.

Center for Medical Simulation Course

CSC members volunteered to attend 4 day class provided by Harvard's Center for Medical Simulation. They were received advanced instruction on how to integrate simulation in a learning environment and conducting effective post simulation debriefing techniques. Many CSC members use this training to develop and/or enhance their MTFs simulation program.

Outstanding Simulation Administrator Award 2015

The CRDAMC Simulation Center Administrator has won the Simulation Administrator of the year for 2015. Honored with his second award for Administrator of the year. This award is presented to a simulation administrator each year that has made significant contributions to the CSC training mission over the past year. It was created to recognize a CSC Simulation Administrator who has helped to facilitate their individual training center's training mission. This individual represents the epitome of selfless service through their continual and frequent support of others success through their energy and superb customer service.
